Synopsis:

The play, a comedy farce in two acts, is set in a charity run opportunity shop. Upstairs, over the shop, live two younger women. These ladies are exotic dancers at the Pink Pussy by night, and by day they run a very successful phone sex business, which the opp shop staff believe is simple tele-marketing.

The dissimilar values and attitudes of the two very different lots of tenants, upstairs and downstairs, and the stream of weird and wonderful customers coming and going through the opp Shop, create some very funny situations.

When the local councilors decide to run a recycled fashion parade and talent quest as a promotion to advertise their recycling policies, the girls upstairs are enlisted to help the opp shop staff with their entry in the competition.

You never know just what you might find, when..... Opportunity Knocks!

About Mount Isa Theatrical Society:

MITS is a non-profit amateur theatre company aiming to promote and maintain a lively interest in all forms of theatrical entertainment and endeavor in the city of Mount Isa. We stage four productions each year, ranging from comedies, pantomimes, and dramas, all in theatre restaurant format. Our members are from all walks of life, and regardless of prior experience everyone is encouraged to get involved both on and off the stage.

In 2008, MITS donated $4,090 to other local non-profit community organizations through fundraising (pre-sold) nights. If you would like to organize a fundraising night at MITS, please contact us on 0434 869 400 or info@mits.org.au.
