What's on at MITS

"Hercules Returns"

MITS is holding special screening of the classic Australian film "Hercules Returns",

On opening night of their old-style cinema, two film entrepreneurs find their copy of "Hercules" is entirely in Italian, and without subtitles. However the show must go on, so they improvise a running English soundtrack for the film as it unspools in the projection booth. In their fractured version of the story, Hercules is now a nightclub performer who is snubbed by the nightclub owner's daughter Labia, because she is in love with Testiculi. As the film unspools, the boys in the booth keep up the dubbing, sometimes not making sense, but with hilarious results.
